ROSE BREEDING

Garden-rose breeding is a process that consumes a lot of time, requires a lot of practical and academic knowledge, and needs an abundance of passion and love.

It is complex to create a unique masterpiece.

It takes time to bring a new rose to the market, especially if you aim for outstanding traits. We believe that every moment spent making a new rose variety makes the final result even more special.

We aim to make different roses with traits that go beyond aesthetic value. Projects we are proud of include Winter hardy roses, introducing roses and hips as a source of food, stress and disease tolerant roses, and more.

This year we are enriching our SENSE OF LOVE™ collection with new varieties which are the result of long-term research on fragrant components and essential oils in rose flowers.

OUR COLLECTIONS

Our collections have been carefully created and selected by our team with the intention to make them unique and outstanding.

Every collection has its story and its concept and it is created patiently and passionately with help of science, and in balance with nature.

Concepts and ideas inside Pheno Geno Rose collections are diverse and based on interior and exterior design, landscaping, flower decor, fragrance, food preparation, wildlife preservation, and endurance in harsh conditions.

We are growing our roses in different colors, flower shapes, and fragrances so they can pair with any extravagant present. At the same time, we are creating roses that can satisfy more than meets the eye- they can be part of your home, your lifestyle, and your unique identity.
